

NWRA

National Water Resources Association

Join the Nation's Leading Water Supply Organization

NWRA is America's oldest nonprofit, nonpartisan federation of agricultural and municipal water providers, state water resources associations, and individuals dedicated to the conservation, enhancement, and efficient management of our nation's most important natural resource: water. Our members proudly provide clean water to more than 50 million people, irrigate millions of acres of farmland, help generate carbon-free hydropower, and contribute billions of dollars to the U.S. economy.

Whether your expertise is technology, engineering, sales, or law, if your company is interested in our nation's water resources, the NWRA is the forum to share ideas, shape water policy, and generate business.

The Benefits of Associate Membership

Networking

Gain access to the water managers and board members responsible for supplying water to more than 50 million Americans.

Information Access
